

Sergei Yuryevich Glazyev is a Russian economist, politician, former Minister of Foreign Economic Relations of Russia (1992-1993), a deputy of the State Duma of the 1th, 3rd and 4th convocations. He is Doctor of Economics, Professor, Academician of the Russian Academy of Sciences, Foreign Member of the National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine, one of the initiators and a permanent member of the Izborsk Club.

Sergei Glazyev, a well-known Russian politician and economist, after analyzing the global political and economic changes of recent years came to the following conclusion: as a result of the crisis that has engulfed the world, the powers of the West, most notably the U.S., have been increasing their aggression towards other nations. Again, as in the middle of the 20th century, the threat of Eurofascism looms large on the horizon, with Ukrainian nationalists as its advanced detachment. The West has aimed the brunt of its strike at Russia.

Why would America need a new world war, and is it possible to prevent it? Why has Ukraine been chosen as a springboard for it? What can we set against the Western aggression? What future awaits Russia, Ukraine and the whole world in the 21st century? This is what the new book of Academician Sergei Y. Glazyev is about.
